

Addition to bulletin letter

Many believe that this Wednesday our nation will face the greatest challenge to its stability in over a century and a half. Not since the Civil War have we seen what has transpired in the capitol recently. As Catholics we have been told by Jesus to render unto Caesar what is Caesar's. . . and that means as citizens of the United States we owe allegiance to the Constitution. That document provides a methodology for the peaceful transition of power from one administration to another, a transition which should be respected and supported by those who voted for the winners and those who did not, allowing our elected representatives to strive together for the good of all. Let us commit ourselves this week to prayer and action in support of the Constitution and of one nation under God, with liberty and justice for all.
